OUR MINERAL WEALTH.

Precious Metals in Large Quantities—Gold-bearing Districts—Quartz and Placer Diggings—Safe Investments for Capitalists.

(From a Correspondent.)

VICTORIA, Oct. 24.

Many prominent Canadian statesmen have but a very superficial knowledge of the vast resources of this glorious province, nor the untold wealth in the millions of gold, silver and other precious metals, that are hidden from human gaze in the bowels of our sea of mountains, a term applied to this country by an eminent Canadian statesman, in ignorance of actual facts. All this category knowledge and superficial observation will be gradually disproved in the not very distant future, when our great mineral resources, hitherto but slightly prospected, are developed, giving employment to a mining population of many thousands at high wages, introducing much outside capital into our midst, and finding a market for our home productions, while ranking as producers of the precious and other metals in large quantities. So numerous and favorable are the indications of great mineral wealth throughout the different ranges of mountains within our boundaries.

SURFACE OR PLACER MINING

for gold which is still carried on to a considerable extent, and supporting quite a number of hardy miners, has in the past contributed not a little towards the present wealth of the province. The industry, however, is temporary in its character. Often the residents of a large mining camp, prospecting this enterprise, may, on slight occasions, desert a fairly paying locality and wander off to new or more promising fields with the restlessness so general amongst old mining populations.

HYDRAULIC MINING.

I must not tread lightly, however, the many opportunities still offering throughout the entire country for hydraulic mining on a large scale, an industry which is as yet but slightly prosecuted in the Cariboo and Cassiar districts only, as far as I am aware. While there are hundreds of benches, and old river beds which are still awaiting man's handiwork to reward him with some of their well distributed wealth, many of these benches are of great extent and depth, in most cases the gold has been found to be evenly distributed throughout the whole mass of the gravel it has often been found that the greater proportions lie in the lower stratums, and on the rans and original bed rock. Rivers and creeks, wending their way through the gold formations of the country, wearing and cutting slowly, but surely into them until perhaps many hundred of feet below their original bed, while depositing before receding these huge banks of gravel, and concealing much of the golden wealth which the disintegration of the country rock, sets free to be again confined by nature; in this way affording, however, greater facilities for its extraction. Much capital is sometimes required for this work, ditches have to be dug, sometimes large reservoirs have to be constructed where a sufficient head of water cannot be obtained from the natural supply. But it is at the same time astonishing to see what great results are sometimes obtained out of gravel which, when prospected in the ordinary manner, shows but few colors to the pan. The best returns are obtained where there is a uniform showing of gold, however small, throughout the gravel. There are other opportunities, as yet neglected, of prosecuting this great industry—perfectly safe in the opinion of practical men, but which require larger capital to make operations successful—often hard to obtain in a country so comparatively unknown to the mining world. I now refer to the division of the larger rivers and streams, which at low water have been demonstrated to a certain, though limited, extent to be

RICH IN GOLD.

Many such streams abound throughout the province. On the smaller of these wingdams and flumes have been sometimes constructed with varying results, dependent often on a dry season for successful operations, but rarely are the profits of the miner so working commensurate with the many hardships and risks he has to undergo in this class of mining. So numerous are the creeks and rivers throughout the country which cannot be worked by even these methods, and which are undoubtedly very rich that greater means must be found to extract the wealth which for centuries has been depositing in their beds. Money and engineering skill can accomplish much in this direction.

THE BRIDGE RIVER,

a tributary of the Fraser river, offers on a gigantic scale, an enterprise which will undoubtedly be taken in hand in the near future. The diversion of its waters at a point about 25 miles from its mouth into the waters of Lake Anderson, which lies some seven hundred feet below this large stream, and separated by a mountain in which a natural divide occurs at a point about half the distance from its mouth. Making such an enterprise not only practicable but at a cost which considering the large amount of gold distributed throughout the whole bed of the river for twenty-five miles—a river which has paid handsomely on all its bars and benches—would be small in comparison with the returns. This idea is by no means new. Many a practical miner has seen the advantages and feasibility of this undertaking, and has pondered over the many millions lying just out of his grasp. Often such opportunities occur, requiring capital throughout these mountains of ours. A description of each would require very many much longer letters. Distant fields it is said, appear greener to the imagination than those near at hand. Perhaps a cause why the venom that so little attention has been paid of late years to the many favorable opportunities for hydraulic mining within a few miles of Victoria, and it is quite probable that a practical investigation of the Goldstream and Sooke river district might lead to favorable results. The opening up of the

of the Granite creek, and Similkameen country, has given an impetus to this class of mining which will be largely felt during the coming summer, as it will undoubtedly attract many hundreds from less profitable mining districts in the United States to try their fortunes with us. An influx of this kind cannot fail to open up much hitherto unprospected territory. There is a much greater amount of gold concealed in this great "sea of mountains" than can be extracted by many future generations; but the most important results of this feverish search for our placer deposits consists more in the greater facility which is given to the prosecution of the research for quartz ledges and minerals in a more lasting, but generally more productive form, and in these labor beyond all doubt much of the future prosperity of the province.

GREAT POSSIBILITIES.

If I am permitted I shall endeavor in a future letter to your valuable columns, to lay before such of your many readers who may feel interested, a few notes relative to this subject from personal observations made by myself during a sojourn of some months in the mountains. The matter treated will be necessarily limited to the districts which I traversed and explored, but will suffice to give an idea of the great possibilities of the whole country. J. E. B.

GEOLOGICAL SURVEY.

Scope of Dr. Dawson's Explorations on the East Coast.

Dr. George W. Dawson, F.R.G.S., assistant director of the geological survey of Canada, returned home on the evening of the 12th inst. He left Victoria on the 24th of June last, in the schooner Carolina, accompanied by Mr. D. B. Dowling as assistant, and sailed to near Comox, where the late Dr. Richardson's examination ended. Proceeding from this point Dr. Dawson continued the examination northward to Seymour Narrows, then Valdez, Cortez and other islands eastward. Returned to Seymour Narrows he again continued northward, examining both shores of Queen Charlotte Sound, and north and west coasts of Vancouver to Quatsino, Quatsino Sound and neighboring waters, also all parts of the main shore of the Straits of Georgia and Queen Charlotte Sound not previously gone over; in this manner making a and locating the most important points for future detailed work. Dr. Dawson has in former years, in connection with the geological survey explorations, traveled over a large area of British Columbia and expresses himself as now more than ever convinced of the vast importance of its mineral resources overlaid by rocks which to the trained eye speaks of what is underneath, while to the untrained they are dumb. What is now required he says, is capital to lay these treasures bare, when no doubt plenty of capital will be forthcoming to develope them. Coal, iron and copper are the principal mineral deposits of the island, and are found in a great many places, the working and manufacturing of which will give employment to a large population.

MANY ATTRACTIVE AREAS

of good agricultural land are scattered over the island and found where least expected, invariably surrounded with the most beautiful scenery. The great importance of the fisheries of the northern coast has scarcely as yet been noticed, and he has no doubt the time is near when the numerous beautiful inlets and sheltered coves will be occupied and made lively by a hardy population of fishermen. The northern part of the island shows much low land, though this is invariably heavily timbered, yet in the future a large area of it, no doubt, will be utilized as farming land, the mildness of the climate being in itself an attractive feature to immigrants, without taking into consideration the rare beauty of the natural scenery. Dr. Dawson has gone over somewhat between 700 and of coast line on this trip, the weather was all that could be desired, though too calm for fast sailing. Dr. Dawson hopes to return next season to complete the work now in hand, which, when completed, will be of the greatest importance as showing more clearly the vast mineral wealth of the province. He will return to Ottawa in a few days, we wish him bon voyage and a safe return.

POLICE COURT.

(Before R. Johnson, S. M.)

Louis Redon and Gus Hartnagel, charged with selling liquor without a license.

Mr. Russell, appearing for the corporation, said that the accused had leased that part of the Theatre building to carry on this business, and were ignorant that a breach of the law was being committed in selling liquor and the corporation wished to withdraw the charge.

The magistrate concurred and the charge was withdrawn.

John Matthew and George Williams fined in $5 and $1 costs, in default one week for being drunk.

Andrew Welsh, a half breed, charged with supplying an Indian with intoxicating liquor.

The prisoner said he was employed on the missionary steamer at Fort Simpson up till four months ago. The Indian had come to him repeatedly, asking him to get whiskey for her, and he at last did it, and pleaded guilty. Fined in $25; in default one months' imprisonment with hard labor.

Seaward, a Fort Simpson Indian, charged with being in unlawful possession of whiskey. Fined $25, in default one week with hard labor.

James Murphy and William Burns, charged with fighting on Johnson street. Murphy fined $5 and $3 costs; in default 14 days with hard labor. Burns was discharged.

LAKE SUPERIOR TRAFFIC.

A Western paper says that few people are aware of the extraordinary growth of the traffic between Lake Superior and the lower lakes. According to statistics furnished to the Detroit Post the traffic through the Sault Ste. Marie canal during the month of September last was larger than that of any previous month in its history, and exceeded that passing through the Suez canal in the same time by 30000 tons. During the month, 574 steamboats, 309 sailing vessels, and 20 barges and unregistered craft passed through the new locks, the registered tonnage being 531,689 tons, and the freight tonnage 533,511 tons. Of the 720 hours in the month, 593 were occupied in locking. Attention is called to the fact that the magnificent locking facilities of the canal will soon be inadequate to accommodate the trade of Lake Superior, so marvellous is its growth.

MRS. MARK HOPKINS, who lives at Great Barrington, Mass., and who left California out of fear of DENNIS KEARNEY and his followers, has at least $30,000,000 to manage. She makes good interest on shrewd investments and careful management.

Two more American defaulters have left New York for the safer shores of Canada. This will give the alleged funny men of the American press another opportunity of making their useless very tired.

THE CASSIAR MINES.

The Season's Operations in North British Columbia—Output of Dease, Thibert, Defot, and McDame Creeks.

DEASE CREEK, Cassiar, Oct. 12, 1885.

According to promise I drop you a few items from these northern parts. Although the output of gold for the past season has been less than in former years, yet our prospects for the future are more encouraging than they have been for the past two or three years. Several enterprising miners have tunneled the hills of Dease Creek, and have been rewarded by excellent prospects found in a hill channel. As high as $14 to the pan was obtained by Tolmie & Co.; others are prepared to open claims on the new find with every prospect of being as successful. The McCrimmon & McClure claim, on the same hill has been paying the fortunate owners handsomely. These men employ nine men during the open season. It is confidently expected by the knowing ones that before another mining season rolls round, this creek will contribute more to the export of the district than it has done for years.

Thibert Creek from past experience is also expected to increase its contributions to the wealth of the Province. A number of miners have arranged to pierce its hills during the coming winter for the shining metal. From the past working of several claims it has been well demonstrated that a hill channel extends for a considerable distance along the bank of this stream, several claims having paid their owners well during the last couple of seasons.

A company of principally new comers has commenced to develope Mosquito Creek, where a few years ago handsome pay was found by a company which then worked on that stream.

Defot Creek has done well for several parties, who have been engaged in mining there, notably N. Guff, who was rewarded by a purse of several thousand dollars.

McDame Creek has not given as good an account of itself during the season that has closed as was expected. Several claims, from which good returns were anticipated, could not be worked, on account of lack of appliances, but the owners have provided against that contingency for the coming season, and expect to realize handsomely.

On Quartz creek but little has been taken out. The Taylor-McCunig claim on that tributary, which paid so well last season, has not yet done what was expected of it, as the owners ran into a cosyon. They expect to get, at no distant day, where the channel is more favorable.

Mr. Allen has done a deal of work on Snow creek by constructing a flume for a number of hundred of feet but has not as yet got to a point where pay is known to exist.

The Hydraulic claim on Poor Man's creek did fairly well so long as the water lasted.

Fred Hart creek is being proved by a tunnel where moderate wages is being received.

Rosello and Gold creeks did not produce as well as could have been wished.

A few men worked on Walker creek where small wages were found.

Mining and prospecting on the De Loire was prosecuted with but indifferent success. A party of prospectors who had gone in the vicinity of St. Francis lake prospected a number of streams, but did not find enough to induce them to return.

The weather during the past summer, although very fine, was against the mining interests. The confinned heat melted the snow on the mountains, so that the streams were keep high till mid-season, which prevented mining being carried on in the beds of the streams. Then the smaller mountain rivlets, from which, in many instances water was obtained to work the bench diggings, became dried up, so that but little could be done in getting the metal from those claims.

THE OUTPUT OF GOLD

for the past season is from $50,000 to $60,000, but it is believed that it will be at least double, if not more for the season to come.

One lady and over one hundred men are wintering in the mines, and on the Stickeen river. It is a pleasing change for one to pass along the street of Laketon during the evening and hear the voice of Mrs. Clearihue singing a hymn accompaniment on the organ, assisted by Mr. Clearihue. It carries many of the hardy and stalwart miners, who have spent years fighting the mountain fastnesses for the precious ore, in memory back to days gone bye, scarcely blessing madame fortune for not smiling more benignly upon them, so that they might have realized the dreams of youth. Mr. Clearihue, well known in this province, brought with him during the early months of this year from the historic city of Quebec, a bride who has pleasantly made up her mind to endure the rigors of an arctic winter, as her husband's business requires his attention in that country. But few ladies would have the courage to ostracise themselves from old friends, the pleasures of society and city life, to share the fortunes of a husband, where for a length of time a word cannot be exchanged with one of her own sex.

Supplies are plentiful, intermixed with almost all kinds of game, from abundance of ptarmigan up to the very palatable moose meat, prices being reasonable. There has been harvested during the past season the finest crops of grain and vegetables that have ever grown in the district. With the exception of onions, (which grow well on the Stickeen), no importation of vegetables has been found necessary. People in many parts of the world would be proud of the class of vegetables which are now yearly grown on Stickeen river. The health of the camp is all that could be wished and the obliging qualities of our officers from the Gold Commissioner down, is such that there is no room to grumble.

THE ELIZA ANDERSON SEIZED.

A report is in circulation, given currency to by U. S. customs officers, that the Eliza Anderson was seized at Port Townsend last night, for an infraction of the customs law. The steamer, or some parties connected therewith, have been engaged in smuggling Chinamen and opium into the U. S. from this city. Another report says that the difficulty had been arranged and that Captain Tom Wright had been removed. The latter, we trust, is incorrect, as few who know Captain Wright would believe that he was in any way personally implicated in any smuggling transaction.

THE MARQUIS OF LORNE

Is Hooted and Bottle-egged at Brentford.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—It is now evident that the Parliamentary campaign will not pass off without serious rioting in some quarters, as party feeling, which already ran high, daily grows more bitter. The Marquis of Lorne, Liberal candidate for Hampstead, when at Brentford town, seven miles west of London, to deliver a campaign speech, and while addressing the electors, was assaulted by a mob with rotten eggs, and some of them gaining the platform smashed the hat over his head. The supporters of the Marquis rushed to his rescue and a fight ensued. The noble lord now became so thoroughly frightened that he hastily departed from the scene and ran through the streets in a drenching rain towards a way station and immediately departed for London. Meanwhile the fight continued, the supporters of the Marquis being severely handled, and becoming discouraged at their desertion by their champion, they retired, leaving their contestants masters of the field. They then seized the platform and passed resolutions condemning the policy of the Liberals. When the Queen's son-in-law made his appearance as the Liberal candidate for Hampstead it occasioned considerable surprise, and when he put forward in his address advanced Radical opinions, the surprise was greatly increased. He adopted Chamberlain's programme of free education, and advocated immediate disestablishment in Scotland. He championed the principles of the free land league, and the withdrawal of encouragement of the sub-division of land; suggested that the sale of large estates, en bloc, should be subject to heavy taxation, while sales of land to be divided into smaller lots should be left duty free. As to the House of Lords, he hardly went so far as the Hampstead Radicals desired, being of opinion that that venerable institution might be amended by the infusion of elected members. He favored the extension of local self-government to Ireland.

LETTING TRIBUTE.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—The Times correspondent, at Madrid, telegraphs that the Spanish government has threatened to seize the furniture and books of the school belonging to Rev. Mr. Jameson, Presbyterian Minister, and a British subject, unless he paid twenty-eight pounds for stamps on school account books. Jameson borrowed the money and paid it in order to prevent a seizure.

AN EVASIVE REPLY.

LONDON, Oct. 24.—The reply of the Spanish government to the protest of Great Britain against the recent outrage on the British Consulate at Havana, is considered evasive and unsatisfactory in official circles here.

BRITISH MAILS

To be Carried From Coal Harbor to Yokohama.

The British Government Calls for Tenders for the Work.

TORONTO, Oct. 24.—A despatch from London to the Globe says the Imperial Post Office authorities are now advertising for tenders for the conveyance of the British mails from Coal Harbor, British Columbia, to the island of Hongkong. The advertisement calls for a fortnightly service by the way of Yokohama, both outward and homeward. The present contracts for the conveyance of the British mails to China terminate on January 31st, 1888. Tenders in response to the present offer may be sent in up to March 31st, 1886. This is regarded here as an important recognition of the Canadian Pacific route.

THE GALLOWS.

Condition to Take Place on Dec. 17th.

KAMLOOPS, Oct. 24.

The jury empanelled to enquire into the death of Andrew Johnson, at Fifteen Mile Creek, near Farwell, returned a verdict of guilty against Albert Mallott. His Lordship, Mr. Justice Walkem, before pronouncing the sentence of the court, asked the unfortunate man if he had anything to say in his own defence. In reply to this he made a few remarks. It was very evident the poor man felt the fearful position in which he was placed. The Judge then sentenced the condemned man to be hung by the neck until dead on the 17th of December. In pronouncing the awful sentence of death His Lordship was very much affected, as this was the first occasion on which he condemned a fellow-being to suffer the extreme penalty of the law. He held out no hope for the condemned man, and urged him in the strongest terms to prepare for his approaching death. The occasion was a solemn one, and those present were visibly affected.

HANLAN-TEEMER

The Canadian Champion Again Lowers His Colors.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 24.—Clear bright sky this morning presaged a fine day for the single skull race between Hanlan and Teemer, off Pleasure Island. The distance is three miles with a turn over the same course on which Hanlan and Lee, and Courtney and Conley rowed. The betting this morning is animated; some private wagers were even Hanlan was the favorite in Troy and Boston.

TEEMER WINS.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct 24.—Teemer won the toss for position. After the toss betting changed from 6 to 4 on Hanlan to 5 to 4 in Teemer's favor. Boats were taken at 4:45, delay having been occasioned by the anchoring of the stake boat. Teemer caught the water first and gained a length on Hanlan. This advantage he retained at half a mile.

Teemer wins the race.

AN AFFECTING INTERVIEW.

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 24.—Hugh M. Brooks, or as he is better known as W. H. Lennox Maxwell, the murderer of C. Arthur Preller, met his father, Samuel Brooks, for the first time this morning in the office of the Circuit Attorney at the jail. The elder Brooks had come all the way from Ryde, England, to be with his son in his coming trial and has been kept in seclusion for the past two days by the murderer's attorney. When the father and son met this morning they at once fell into each others arms, embraced each other warmly and then both burst into tears. All the spectators withdrew save the deputy sheriff, who had the prisoner in charge. The father and son had a protracted talk, lasting about half an hour, after which the father withdrew and the son was taken back to jail. The elder Brooks refused to give particulars of the interview, but stated that now he was more convinced than ever that his son was innocent.

BANQUET TO MR. VAN HORNE.

To THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR,—In view of the near arrival of Mr. W. C. Van Horne, Vice-President and General Manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway, would it not be in place to tender that gentleman a banquet on his arrival in this city. The occasion would not only be a fitting opportunity to do honor to him, but to celebrate one of the greatest events in Canadian history, the completion of an all rail route from ocean to ocean, on Canadian soil. It would also give an opportunity of to the citizens of Victoria to endorse the action of the management of the C. P. R. in the rapid manner in which the work has been prosecuted, and the immediate results this city is likely to derive from it. In no better way could we show our appreciation of their energy, than by tendering a banquet to Mr. Van Horne. The completion of the Canadian Pacific Railway is the greatest achievement of this century, and on it hold the destiny of our cities and towns are in the hands of the management of that line. Victoria being the largest city and capital of the province, should not lose an opportunity like this, but place herself forward, as she is determined and destined, I may say, to be the greatest city on the Pacific coast. VICTORIAN.

An elastic step, buoyant spirits, and clear complexion are among the many desirable results of pure blood. The possessor of healthy blood has his health in a treasured, and enjoys a quick and clear perception, which is impossible when the blood is heavy and clogged with impurities. Ayer's Sarsaparilla is the best blood purifier and vitalizer known.

ASSISTED IMMIGRATION.

The recent agitation in the eastern portive of the Dominion, anent assisted immigration, will be production of much good. Against legitimate immigration there is no movement or complaint. Canada, excepting to the Chinese, is a free country to all who choose to come to our shores. The objection is taken against encouraging a class of people who undoubtedly would swell our criminal population, by dumping on our coast and seaport cities, a very undesirable class from the slums of the great British cities. It is asserted that the percentages of those whose passages were paid by the Dominion government were a positive acquisition or benefit to the country. Paid passages brought a considerable number of domestic servant girls—a very desirable class in many respects—but of male agricultural laborers the number was small. Those in charge of the immigration bureau have asserted in the most positive manner that mechanics have not received assistance. It has been ascertained that the men who were brought to Canada by scores were those who had had a hand to mouth existence in the English cities, and who, on their arrival here, resumed their accustomed mode of life in our cities. And now, as a result of the encouragement which has been extended to the efforts of the London philanthropists to empty the slums of that city on Canada, we see London papers deliberately proposing to land unfortunate women in numbers on our soil. The immigrants whom Canada wants are those who, in place of believing that they bestow a privilege on the Canadian people by letting us pay their passage out, come here of their own accord, expecting difficulties and prepared to surmount them. For them we have a warm welcome and plenty of work. One such person is worth a score of the ordinary assisted immigrants. If he be successful—and such a person, in ninety-nine cases out of a hundred, is successful—he becomes a most effective immigration agent himself, and his example is followed by those of his friends who are dissatisfied with their lives across the ocean. We have millions of acres of land awaiting such people, but as our prisons are fairly full, and our charitable institutions have all they can do to feed our own poor, we want no more assisted immigrants at present.

SOME time ago PRINCE ALEXANDER of Bulgaria proposed for the hand of a Princess belonging to one of the great reigning families. Although the lady herself was not averse to the match, her parents scouted the idea, telling her suitor he must rise a good deal higher before he would be fit to mate with their daughter. The Prince took this rebuff in good part, merely remarking: "Very well, then, since you will not have a mere Prince for a son-in-law, I must try to make myself a King." This was regarded at the time as a mere idle vaunt, but PRINCE ALEXANDER'S present enterprise gives the utterance something of the character of a prophecy.

A RESULT of the Pall Mall Gazette's late articles is a demand for "clean" candidates throughout England. The Catholic Archbishop of Dublin, in a circular to the people of Wicklow, exhorts them to demand, as a candidate, "a man of blameless private, as well as public life." This is a very good move, but it is to be hoped that the man of blameless private and public life will not find it incumbent to aid his own cause by publishing to the world the vileness of his adversary.

AN Ottawa despatch says: The Ontario government's medical officers who are doing service on trains arriving from Montreal, received instructions on Sunday that under no circumstances shall any person be allowed to enter the province of Ontario from Montreal who has not been vaccinated. Persons refusing to submit to the operation are taken in custody.

MR. JAMES RUSSELL LOWELL returns to his first love, and will assume his associations in Harvard College by lecturing in the winter in the Italian and Spanish courses on Dante and Don Quixote.

SOFIA AND ALEXANDER.

Sofia, the capital of Bulgaria, is included in the trunk railway scheme that is to connect Belgrade, Constantinople and Salonica. In 1841, when BLANQUI visited the city, he reported it to be built of wood, and as filthy as it was pertiferous. It is now becoming a modern city. The palace of ALEXANDER (who is a brother-in law of the PRINCESS BEATRICE) cost about $750,000. The national library is open all the year round, and in the evening is lit with gas; the Museum is becoming filled with curios; it has the famous "wooden" cannon that figures in all insurrections. The side paths of the streets are paved with old Turkish tomb stones, on which are elegant arabesque inscriptions. In Paris old grave stones are made and contrived a double, aye, a triple debt, to pay. The Prince is very popular. Though of German origin, he was brought up in the Russian army, and was the favorite nephew of the late Czar's wife. Naturally, he has Russified more than ever Bulgarian manners and institutions. Everything in Bulgaria is modelled after the Russian pattern; such as the uniform of the army; the officers and ministers are Russians; military instructions is given in the Russian language, so that a stranger at a review, either at Sofia or Philippopolis, might conclude he was in the esplanade of Kief or Moscow, and were the Sultan to assist at a review in Roumelia, he would have to hear the word of command given in the language of the conquerors of Chipka. Then a good fraction of the youth has made the campaign with GOURKO and SKOBELOFF; and many of them are graduates of the Robert College, at Constantinople, an institution founded by an American, and well organized for imparting a higher class education to Bulgarian youth.

IT is reported that ARCHBISHOP TASCHEREAU is likely to be made a cardinal in place of the late CARDINAL MCCLOSKEY. The elevation of the Archbishop to the position will no doubt be highly popular in the Province of Quebec. The Archbishop is a gentleman of high culture and great moderation, and as his countrymen number something over a million, the rumor may not be without foundation.

THE Prince of Wales, who is traveling incognito on the continent, has postponed his departure for Paris, and was entertained by the Austrian Emperor at a dinner at Schonbrunn recently. There is a growing belief that the Prince's mission is political rather than social, but this is hardly probable.

NIAGARA FALLS.

The International Park Scheme—Satisfactory Progress Being Made.

A dispatch from Niagara Falls on the 9th inst., announces the result of the second day's session of the Park Commission. The Bush property is better known as Zimmerman's Park, and contains about fourteen acres. It was used some years ago as a garden in connection with the Clifton House, when it was then fitted up with summer houses, gas lamps, etc., but of late it has been unused and somewhat neglected. The Davis property contains about sixteen acres, and is adjacent to the Horse Shoe Falls. It runs from what is known as "The Ravine" to a point 500 yards south of the main body of water. The buildings on this property are the Niagara Falls Museum (which also has a park and zoological garden surrounding it), the Prospect House, and the Table Rock House. The award on this property, which is by far of the most value, will probably exceed half of the whole award to be made. The interest and anxiety as to the results of this session are manifested by numerous letters and telegrams which are received daily from American papers and prominent American personages seeking for full particulars, and all expressing hopes that the efforts of the Commission may prove fruitful. The popularity of the American reservation has been attested by the thousands of Canadians who have visited Niagara since the opening day, 15th July last. The Commission express themselves satisfied with the results of their labors thus far, and look forward to amicable settlement with all the property owners. They hope soon to have their report of the value of the award ready for publication.

GENERAL NEWS.

Destructive prairie fires are raging west of Winnipeg. Two men, whose names are unknown, together with a number of horses and cattle, were burned to death yesterday.

The town of Prescott, Ont., expects to lose about $1600 in license fees this year year, owing to the Scott Act, and in Cornwall the deficiency will be about $3000.

There is a breed of tailless cats at Lennoxville, Que. One of them had two kittens lately, one with a tail and one without. They are supposed to have come originally from the Isle of Man.

In 1844 there were only sixteen miles of railway in Canada. But there is now nearly 10,000 miles. Canada has $104 invested in railways for each inhabitant, being only excelled by the United Kingdom, which has $107, and the United States, which has $112.

A Sunday school scholar was asked, apropos of Solomon, who the great queen was that traveled so many miles to see him? The scholar—in fact, the whole school—looked as if a little help would be liked, and the teacher therefore said: "The Queen's name begins with an S." "I've got it sir!" exclaimed the delighted scholar. "Well, who was it?" "It was Queen of Spades, sir!"

Lumbermen unanimously declare that along the Wheagamon, Spanish Dog and the Michipicotin rivers, north of Lake Superior, will now spring up a great lumbering industry, rivalling that of northern Michigan. There are said to be the finest forests of pine on this northern continent uncut there. The construction of the Canadian Pacific railway opens the whole district to the markets of the world.

There is no doubt, says the Globe, that Mr. Kilvert, M. P. for Hamilton, has been commissioned Collector of Customs at that port, but the government dare not issue the writ for a new election. Some prominent Hamilton Conservatives were here to-day interviewing the Minister in reference to the matter. It seems that Conservatives are divided in opinion as to whether Mr. Adam Brown or Mr. G. E. Tuckett shall be the party candidate when Mr. Kilvert formally retires, and Mr. Brown wants the influence of the Ottawa government exerted to secure the nomination for him.

DYSPEPSIA.

Sedentary habits, mental worry, nervous excitement, excess or imprudence in eating or drinking, and various other causes, induce Constipation followed by general derangement of the liver, kidneys, and stomach, in which the disorder of each organ increases the infirmity of the others.

The immediate results are Loss of Appetite, Nausea, Foul Breath, Heartburn, Flatulence, Dizziness, Sick Headache, failure of physical and mental vigor, distressing sense of weight and fullness in the stomach, and increased Costiveness, all of which are known under one head as Dyspepsia.

In every instance where this disease does not originate from scrofulous taint in the blood, AYER'S PILLS may be confidently relied upon to effect a cure. These cases yield more readily to the curative influence of AYER'S PILLS than some will certainly yield if the PILLS are aided by the powerful blood-purifying properties of AYER'S SARSAPARILLA.

Dyspeptics should know that the longer treatment of their malady is postponed, the more difficult of cure it becomes.

Ayer's Pills

Never fail to relieve the bowels and promote their healthful and regular action, and thus cure Dyspepsia. Temporary palliatives all do permanent harm. The fitful activity into which the enfeebled stomach is spurred by "bitters," and alcoholic stimulants, is inevitably followed by reaction that leaves the organ weaker than before.

"Costiveness, induced by my sedentary habits of life, became chronic; AYER'S PILLS afforded me speedy relief. Their occasional use has since kept me all right." HERMANN BRIDGMAN, Newark, N. J.

"I was induced to try AYER'S PILLS as a remedy for Indigestion, Constipation, and Headache, from which I had long been a sufferer. I found their action easy, and obtained prompt relief. They have benefited me more than all the medicines ever before tried." M. V. WATSON, 152 State St., Chicago, Ill.

"They have entirely corrected the costive habit, and vastly improved my general health." REV. FRANCIS H. HARLOWE, Atlanta, Ga.

"The most effective and the easiest physic I have ever found. One dose will quickly move my bowels and free my head from pain." W. I. PAGE, Richmond, Va.

"A sufferer from Liver Complaint, Dyspepsia, and Neuralgia for the last twenty years, AYER'S PILLS have benefited me more than any medicine I have ever taken." P. H. ROGERS, Madison, Jones Co., Ind.

"For Dyspepsia they are invaluable." J. T. HAYES, Mexia, Texas.

IN LUCK AT LAST

BY WALTER BESANT.

(CHAPTER XI.—(Continued.)

When he was told about the robbery he expressed the greatest surprise that any one in the world could be so wicked as to rob an old man like his grandfather. Besides his abhorrence of crime in the abstract, he affirmed that the robbery of a safe was a species of villainy for which hanging was too mild—much too mild a punishment. He then asked his grandfather what were the contents of the packet stolen, and when he received no answer except a pleasant and a cheery laugh, he asked Iris, and learned to his sorrow that the contents were unknown, and could not, therefore, be identified, even if they were found. This, he said, was a thousand pities, because, if they had been known, a reward might have been offered. For his own part he would advise the greatest caution. Nothing at all should be done at first; no step should be taken which might awaken suspicion; they should go on as if the papers were without value. As for that, they had no real proofs that there was any robbery. Iris thought of telling him about the water mark of the blank paper, but refrained. Perhaps there was no robbery after all—who was to prove what had been inside the packet? But if there had been papers, and if they were valueless except to the rightful owners, they would, perhaps, be sent back voluntarily; or after a time, say a year or two, they might be advertised for; not as if the owners were very anxious to get them, and not revealing the nature of the papers, but cautiously; and presently, if they had not been destroyed, the holders of the papers would answer the advertisement, and then a moderate reward might, after a while, be offered, and so on, giving excellent advice. While he was speaking Lala Roy entered the room in his noiseless manner and took his accustomed chair.

"And what do you think, sir?" said Joseph, when he had finished. "You have heard my advice. You are not an Englishman, but I suppose you've got some intelligence."

Lala bowed and spread his hands, but replied not.

"Your opinion should be asked," Joseph went on, "because, you see, as the only other person, besides my grandfather and my cousin, in the house, you might yourself be suspected. Indeed," he added, "I have no doubt you will be suspected. When I take over the conduct of the case, which will be my task, I suppose, it will, perhaps, be my duty to suspect you."

"It will perhaps be my duty to suspect you."

Lala bowed again and again, spread his hands, but did not speak.

In fact, Joseph now perceived that he was having the conversation wholly to himself. His grandfather sat passive, listening as one who, in a dream, hears voices but does not heed what they are saying, yet smiling politely. Iris listened, but paid no heed. She thought that a good deal of fuss was being made about papers, which, perhaps, were worth nothing. And as for her inheritance, why, as she never expected to get any, she was not going to mourn the loss of what, perhaps, was worth nothing.

"Very well, then," said Joseph, "that's all I've got to say. I've given you the best advice I can, and I suppose I may go. Have you lost your voice, Iris?"

"No; but I think you had better go, Joseph. My grandfather is not able to talk this morning, and I dare say your advice is very good, but we have other advisers."

"As for you, Mr. Lala Roy, or whatever you call yourself," said Joe, roughly, "I've warned you. Suspicion will certainly fall upon you, and what I say is—take care. For my own part I never did believe in niggers, and I wouldn't have one in my house."

Lala Roy again bowed and spread his fingers.

Then Joseph went away. The door between the shop and the hall was half open, and he looked in. A strange man was sitting in the outer shop, a pipe in his mouth, and James was leaning his head upon his hands, with wild and haggard eyes gazing straight in on him.

"Poor devil!" murmured Joseph. "I feel for him, I do indeed. He had the key made—for himself; he certainly let me see it once, but only once, and who's to prove it? And he's had the opportunity every day of using it himself. That's very awkward, Foxy, my boy. If I were Foxy, I should be in a funk myself."

He strolled away, thinking that all promised well. Lotty most favorably and unsuspiciously received in her new character; no one knowing the contents of the packet; his grandfather gone silly; and for himself, he had had the opportunity of advising exactly what he wished to be done—namely, that silence and inaction should be observed for a space, in order to give the holders of the property a chance of offering terms. What better advice could he give? And what line of action would be better or safer for himself?

If James had known who was in the house-passage, the other side of the door, there would, I think, have been a collision of two wild bodies. But he did not know, and presently Lala Roy came back, and the torture began again. James took down books and put them up again; he moved about feverishly, doing nothing, with a duster in his hand; but all the time he felt those deep eyes upon him with a pressure which was more than a thousand questions. He knew—he was perfectly certain—that he should be found out. And all the trouble for nothing! and the bailiff's man in possession, and the safe robbed, and those eyes upon him, saying, as plain as eyes could speak, "Thou art the man!"

"And Joe is the man," said James; "not me at all. What I did was wrong, but I was tempted. Oh, what a precious fool and villain he is! And what a fool I've been!"

The day passed more slowly than it seemed possible for any day to pass; always the man in the shop; always the deep eyes of the silent Hindoo upon him. It was a relief when, once, Mr. Chalker looked in and surveyed the shelves with a suspicious air, and asked if the old man had by this time listened to reason.

It is the business of him who makes plunder out of other men's distresses—as the jackal feeds upon the offal and the putrid carcass—to know as exactly as he can how his fellow-creatures are situated. For this reason such a one doth diligently inquire, listen, pick up secrets, put two and two together, and pry curiously into everybody's affairs, being never so happy as when he gets an opportunity of going to the rescue of a sinking man. Thus among those who lived in good repute about the lower end of the King's Road now had a better name than Mr. Emblem, and no one was considered to have made more of his chances. And it was with joy that Mr. Chalker received Joe one evening and heard from him the dismal story, that if he could not find fifty pounds within a few hours he was ruined. The fifty pounds was raised on a bill bearing Mr. Emblem's name. When it was presented, however, and the circumstances explained, the old gentleman, who had at first refused to own the signature, accepted it meekly, and told no one that his grandson had written it himself, and without the polite formality of asking permission to sign for him. In other words, Joseph was a forger, and Mr. Chalker knew it, and this made him the more astonished when Mr. Emblem did not take up the bill, but got it renewed quarter after quarter, substituting at length a bill of sale, as if he was determined to pay as much as possible for his grandson's sins.

"Where to be?" asked the money-lender angrily. "Why doesn't he come down and face his creditors?"

"Master's up stairs," said James, "and you've seen yourself, Mr. Chalker, that he is off his chump. And oh, sir, who would have thought that Emblem's would have to come to ruin?"

"But there's something, James—come, think—there must be something."

"Mr. Joseph said there were thousands. But he's a terrible liar—oh, Mr. Chalker, he's a terrible liar and villain! Why, he's even deceived me!"

"What! Has he borrowed your money?"

"Worse—worse. Do you know where I could find him, sir?"

"Well, I don't know—". Mr. Chalker was not in the habit of giving addresses, but in this case perhaps Joe might be squeezed as well as his grandfather. Unfortunately that bill with the signature had been destroyed. "I don't know. Perhaps if I find out I may tell you. And, James, if you can learn anything—this rubbish won't fetch half the money—I'll make it worth your while, James, I still indeed."

"I'll make him take his share," said James to himself. "If I have to go to prison, he shall go too. They sha'n't send me without sending him."

He looked round. The watchful eyes were gone. The Hindoo had gone away noiselessly. James breathed again.

"After all," he said, "how are they to find out? How are they to prove anything? Mr. Joseph took the things, and I helped him to a key, and he isn't likely to split, and—oh, Lord, if they were to find it!" For at that moment he felt the duplicate key in his waistcoat pocket. "If they were to find it!"

He took the key out and looked at the bright and innocent looking thing as a murderer might look at his blood-stained dagger.

Just then, as he gazed upon it, holding it just twelve inches in front of his nose, one hand was laid upon his shoulder and another took the key from between his fingers.

He turned quickly and his knees gave way, and he sank upon the floor, crying:

"Oh, Mr. Lala Roy, sir, Mr. Lala Roy, I am not the thief! I am innocent! I will tell you all about it! I will confess all to you! I will indeed! I will make atonement! Oh, what a miserable fool I've been!"

"Oh, Mr. Lala Roy, sir, Mr. Lala Roy, I am not the thief!"

"Upon the heels of Folly," said the Sage, "treadeth Shame. You will now be able to understand the words of wisdom, which say of the wicked man, 'The curse of iniquity pursueth him; he liveth in continual fear; the anxiety of his mind taketh vengeance upon him.' Stand up and speak."

The man in possession looked on as if an incident of this kind was too common in families for him to take any notice of it. Nothing, in fact, is able to awaken astonishment in the heart of the man in possession, because nothing is sacred to him except the "stick." He has to guard. In this the event was, however, of importance, because it afforded Lala Roy a chance of giving Arnold that photograph, no other than an early portrait of Mr. Emblem's grandson.

Architectural Inspirations and Bad Debts

[Atlantic Monthly.]

How unlike the growth of the smart towns of our young west, which appear all to have been cast in the same mold, or rather cut out by the same jig saw! There is notable architecture almost everywhere in Mexico. Some of the humblest villages are ennobled by churches whose domes and towers would give them a proud distinction in the greatest cities of our commonplace land.

The architectural inspirations of Mexico come from Spain; the art has been transplanted, not developed here. Therefore it shows characteristics of the styles which mark Spanish architectural history. Gothic, however, is sparsely represented, and its influence is seldom traced, except in the light, aerial strivings of some purely Renaissance towers. The Romanesque and Moorish are found underlying the Renaissance, which dominated Spanish architectural thought at the time of the conquest.

I can forgive paint in Mexico, except in its stage of tawdry freshness; for one rainy season and the intense sunlight of a few months are enough to tone it down into beautiful pale washes of innumerable tints, the underlying hues of perhaps a century's chromatic applications showing through here and there. The church walls and towers were suffused with color, warm and cool, as the green that of old bronzes.

Population in Australia.

[Chicago Herald.]

The population of the Australian colonies was 3,031,887 at the end of 1883, and is now about 3,250,000, and increasing at the rate of over 150,000 a year. Births outnumber deaths more than two to one, the birth rate being very high and the death rate very low. All accounts agree that the part of the population born or reared in Australia are a fine, sturdy race, with much of the dash, enterprise and nervous enthusiasm which characterizes the American type.

—The officers of the penitentiary, at New Westminster, are importing quail with the view of stocking their grounds with these fowl.

—The Princess Louise was launched from Cook's ways this afternoon, having undergone a thorough overhauling. She will take the place of the Yosemite probably on Monday the 2nd November.

—The city boarding house to-day contains 103 inmates, the largest on record for several years. Evidently the "bums" relish the choice bill of fare provided by the city for its criminal classes.

—The coroner at Yale, on Monday held an inquest on the body of Edwin Holloway, shot on the railway track. The verdict of the jury implicated two Chinamen, on suspicion, and they have been held for further examination.

—Cards of invitation by Rear Admiral Sir Michael Culme-Seymour, Bart., and the officers of H. M. ships Triumph and Wild Swan have been issued for a ball at the dockyard, Esquimalt, on the evening of Thursday, the 29th inst.

—The Albion Iron Works closed down yesterday afternoon, in order that the employees could attend the funeral of Mr. Chas. Coldwell. The Odd Fellows—deceased being a member of a California lodge—also accompanied the cortege in a body.

—The Colonist in an editorial to-day claims the honor of being the first to suggest the founding of a provincial university in this city. This is an error. A party lately, in his proposition to the council to found a public library and museum, mentioned this fact. The Colonist is writing on that suggestion.

—The bark Robert Kerr, sold yesterday by Mr. J. Davies, was purchased by Mr. J. Raymur for Mr. W. H. Soule, of Burrard Inlet. The statement of a contemporary that Mr. Alexander was the purchaser, is an error. The bark will probably be repaired and go into active service again.

—The lady on View street, who has been afflicted with a mild attack of smallpox, has fully recovered and will be discharged from quarantine on Monday next. Every precaution has been taken by Dr. Jackson to confine the disease, and with success, as there is no other case in the city. A careful inspection of the Sound steamers is made daily, and all fears of the contagion may now be dispelled.

FOOTBALL AT SCHOOL.

There was a friendly game of football played yesterday, on the grounds of the public school, between fifteen of the 1st division and fifteen of the 2nd and 3rd divisions of the boys' department, which ended in the defeat of the latter by one goal and three touch-downs. The following is a list of the players: 1st division—Musgrave, captain; Williams, Partridge, Hale, Englehardt, Ure, Oppenheimer, McLagan, Lenfesty, Dickinson, Holloway, Jackson, Kinsman, Booth, Catterall. 2nd and 3rd divisions—Dauphine, captain; Jackson, Hibben, Calwell, Tite, Geiger, VanVolkenburgh, Higgins, Devereaux, Finlayson, Acsew, Muirhead, Dibben, Haynes and Allan.

ANTI-CHINESE UNION.

The Meeting Last Night—The Resolutions Passed.

1. Resolved, that the wholesale granting of certificates of return to this province to Chinese or coolies as now effected on the payment of 50 cents to Collector Vrooman at the customs is a direct contravention of the spirit, object and intent of the so-called Chinese Restriction Act now in operation. That this meeting considers the act as at present administered as encouraging deceit and fraud on the part of the Chinese who will certainly return or send substitutes, thus robbing the Dominion and nullifying the act. And further that such administration places within the power of contractors and monopolists the privilege of recalling the thousands, now about emigrating, at any time without the payment of tax and again flooding the country with the cheap and nasty Chinese coolie or slave labor, this meeting, therefore, requests the Honorable W. Hamley, collector of customs for the Dominion to exercise its authority to secure the spirit of the act in operation and if necessary, secure additional reliable help to the officer now in charge; and further, that our representatives use every means to secure the same end, and at the proper time obtain an increase of the tax that will entirely exclude the undesirable coolie class.

2. Resolved, That this meeting approves of and recommends the workingmen and the public generally joining to purchase overalls, shirts and other clothing direct from the Chinese as long as they are employed by wholesale merchants and dealers to make them, which they always will do as long as the Chinese are allowed to remain in the country. Therefore this meeting resolves and passes this depracatory vote of censure on said merchants and dealers of this city and province who thus employ Chinese, to the detriment of the whole province and dominion, individually and collectively.

3. Another resolution expressed the opinion that Chinese wash houses were "a protected tax upon widows, washerwomen and the working and poorer classes generally," and urging that patronage of the same should cease.

The speakers were Messrs. W. A. Robertson, Duval, Picken, Crean and Tuckfield.

GRACE HAWTHORNE.

Her Benefit To-Night—The Entire Theatre-going Population will Turn Out en masse to Bid her Adieu.

It was especially announced that last night's performance at the Victoria would be the society event of the week, and so it proved, for never in the history of Victoria theatricals was a play better presented. The mounting was simply magnificent and the dresses worn were not only elaborate and costly, but were the most artistic in design ever witnessed in this part of the country. Miss Hawthorne appeared to unusual advantage as "Adrienne LeConvreur," and in presenting this character here she deserves the thanks of the entire community. Her conception of the character was as usual perfect, and her poisoned death scene at the end of the play, was a magnificent piece of acting, and was so realistic that the entire audience sit spell bound. Mr. Clifton as Maurice DeSaxe showed off to good advantage, while Mr. Garey as Michonette displayed unusual talent in portraying an exceedingly difficult part. The rest of the company gave excellent support, and on the whole gave us the most enjoyable evening of the week. But to-night will prove a gala one, and those fortunate enough to be on hand will witness a treat rarely, if ever, offered. To see Grace Hawthorne in one character alone is sufficient for one's enjoyment, but to have an opportunity of seeing her portraying comedy, tragedy, emotion, all in one evening, should not be passed by unnoticed, for at the farewell testimonial offered her by prominent citizens tonight, she promises us one act of Fanchon, including the famous shadow dance and the fourth act of Oliver Twist, showing the London Bridge murder scene of poor "Nancy Sykes," and last, but by no means least, she will repeat the great mad scene from Queena. Let a rousing house be on hand at this testimonial to bid adieu to this remarkably talented actress. May her success in the future be phenomenal is the wish of all her Victoria friends.

GOING EAST.

Mr. R. Irving, local agent of the O. R. & N., yesterday ticketed fifteen people for New York and other eastern cities. Parties who intend visiting the east or Europe should interview Mr. Irving before leaving the city. Occasionally a person leaving Victoria goes down to Portland in the expectation of buying a ticket there cheaper, but he is surprised to learn that he has to pay from there to New York, for a third class, $74.50. His fare to Portland had cost him $11, making a total of $85.50. Before leaving Victoria he could have procured a through ticket, from Victoria to New York for $75.50, or $10 less than it actually cost him. Of course he has nothing to do but grin and bear it, the only consideration being that he has bought his knowledge of one of the anomalies of railway traveling for the sum of ten dollars, and, consequently, that he would know better in the future. The reason for the difference is simply that the money paid for a ticket at Portland goes into a pool, and in order to give every one of the pooling lines a slice the fare has to be higher than the Victoria charge. The N. P., over which Mr. Irving tickets his customers, is enabled to carry travelers at bottom rates, because it is not in the pool.

KEEFER VS. TODD.

On Thursday the Chief Justice delivered judgment on the motion to commit defendant, Charles Todd, for contempt in wresting goods from the possession of the Sheriff, and also upon the cross motion to set aside the writ of replevin, on the ground that the goods being in possession of the court were not liable to be replevined. The motion to commit for contempt was dismissed with costs. The court refused to set aside the writ of replevin, on the ground that it had not the authority to do so. As it was impossible to execute it, it was, however, practically inoperative. Mr. Richards, Q. C., and Mr. Helmcken for defendant; Mr. Wilson for plaintiff.

THE FIRE ALARM.

The alarm of fire sounded at 4 p. m. to-day was caused by burglars commencing in a wood-box, in the residence of Mr. Wm. Millington, on Wilcox alley off Fort street. A spark from the stove set the wood on fire, but it was discovered in time and promptly extinguished. The fire department turned out with commendable alacrity, but their services were not required.

BARKERVILLE NEWS.

A Rush for the New Diggings—A Prophet Among the Miners, &c.

On the evening of Friday, the 8th inst., news was brought to Williams' Creek that new shallow bench diggings, paying rich, had been discovered on Sugar Creek. As the news run or spread, and telegrams flashed over the wires, the excitement grew intense, and all the ancient zeal, enthusiasm and hopes, now dying twenty years, were suddenly revived. There was a stampede to the new diggings; throughout the night lights, like Will o' the Wisps, shot over the mountains, and twinkled down the creeks and valleys. Soon after daylight one mile of ground was staked off, and prospecting began with results not so satisfactory as anticipated. However, if it does not turn out a bilk all engaged had the pleasure for a few hours of renewing their youths, and again experiencing the agreeable fascinating sensations of the gold fever.

A PROPHET AMONG US.

"How not to Pay Honest Debts," or a new version of "Who is thy Neighbor," a novel, eccentric and highly imaginative serial story by a home-spun author, has met in this country with unprecedented success, having walked through four editions in as many weeks. The hero, while on his way from Jerusalem to Jericho fell among—what is the word in revised version? Here the author's inventive genius and novicie is fully displayed in meting out to all the characters true poetic justice: And the young man pitched upon them, and stripped them all of their raiment and picked their pockets, and left them decently sad and surprised. Just then Dr. Plausible crossed over from the other side of the way, freshened their wounds poured in a few drops oil of vitriol, and left them happy.

COWARDLY AND DISGRACEFUL SHOOTING AFFAIR.

Word has just been brought to Barkerville that a sheriff's officer shot at a miner on Grouse Creek. As far as we can learn there was no provocation whatever. Great indignation is felt here coupled with a desire to know full particulars. The culprit, a noisy braggart, "a-eating snob, imported into the county some months ago, apparently as a man-hunter, declares that he fired into the air simply to bring to bay certain parties upon whom he wished to serve summonses, while a woman who accompanied him, and as we believe and hope for the sake of her second humanity, was an unwilling and unsuspecting witness of the dastardly outrage, states that "he aimed point-blank, point-blank." It is only a few weeks since the same person was fined for assaulting a Chinaman and the grave charge of presenting a pistol at another old miner who toiled in this country when this valorous youth was still a puking infant, was not pushed on account of the simple and apparently non compos mentis state of the defendant. Now we would, in a friendly way, advise our sheriff to ship this "live-lion-stuffed-with-straw" man to Rock Springs, Wyoming territory, or some other congenial community, and if he considers himself totally unfit for fulfilling the office to which he has been appointed let him hand in his resignation. Ship it off it is dangerous chiefly to itself.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE.

EXTRAORDINARY DECISION.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR,—From your report of the decision of our worthy Stipendiary Magistrate, it would appear that a Chinaman, unable or unwilling to speak English, was found looking fondly at some chickens on the premises of Mr. Beak, and the the manager of the latter ordered one of his boys to remove him, which he did without violence, and in the most gentle manner. The Magistrate expressed himself satisfied that the Chinaman had not told the truth, as he was neither roughly treated or robbed, (of both of which offences he accused the defendants); but at the same time, as they had removed him from the premises, on which it was admitted he had no right to be, defendants must pay $5 each and costs for the privilege of so doing. Of course, no sane man would for a moment hesitate in removing a white man from his chicken yard, but let him beware of touching a Celestial. CITIZEN.

"CRUELTY TO ANIMALS."

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR,—The time has arrived, I think, when we should have a branch of the society for prevention of cruelty to animals in this city, and I hope our humane citizens will awake and take action in the matter. The number of cases calling for such attention are many, and as one who cannot look on such cases of cruelty without indignation, I ask you to give the matter a helping hand. The cases most frequent are those where cattle and sheep, especially the latter, are often left on the wharves from the east coast and aboard steamers for twenty-four hours without food, water or shelter, and as these cattle are not fed on the steamers, they are two days or more starving. Overdriving by butcher boys and others may be seen any day on our streets, the piling of two or three deep of sheep and calves in carts from the steamers to the slaughter houses, with legs tied so as to cut to the bone, are all veritable facts, calling for pity and redress from all right thinking people. This city, that shows so many signs of advancement in other ways, should not be behind in this matter, and I hope a meeting of clergymen and others will soon be held to consider the matter. ONE WHO KNOWS.

THE VOTE OF CENSURE.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TIMES:

SIR,—The Colonist in an editorial today, complains of the action of the Knights of Labor in being premature. The Knights do not wish to do anything unfair, but they consider a matter worthy of their notice when it is the means of deceiving and causing loss to many unsuspecting individuals. The Knights are not without substantial reasons for taking this course, and have ample proof that it was through the glowing accounts of the prosperity of the province that many have been induced to spend their all in their endeavor to get here. If the Colonist's circulation was only confined to the province little harm would result, but many copies are sent from parties here to their friend in the east, thus circulating its visionary descriptions. When complaints are laid almost every day, it is time to take some action. I would advise our worthy friend in the future to confine himself to plain facts, and not attempt these gigantic flights which he has been lately taking to the seventh heaven of unalloyed prosperity and happiness. As regards the poverty stated to exist, I would remark that poverty among a certain class of men is never transparent till a certain extreme is reached, and I think the Colonist, nor any of the same way of thinking, will wish for that extreme. This extreme is the end of long suffering patience which breaks into awful revenge. Referring to the inefficiency of the local government, we did not consider it inefficient in passing acts; but in carrying out these acts after passing them. We are acquainted with all the facts of the Chinese restriction act and others, which will shortly be brought under the notice of the public in a more transparent manner than I can. KNOWN.
